

SINGLE PRESS RELEASE

Redolent
Dantercepies

Band: Redolent

Single: Dantercepies

Label: Aspartame

Release Date: 2nd February 2018

For Fans of... The Prodigy, LCD Soundsystem, Aphex Twin

Edinburgh-based quartet Redolent prepare to entrance listeners with the release of their latest single Dantercepies, out 2nd February 2018 via Aspartame.

"Dantercepies is the name of a massive cable car," lead singer Robin Herbert explains. "I used to get anxiety as a kid waiting in them, so the song is about that feeling building up into the release of adrenaline from skiing." The single combines pulsating electronics with Herbert's conversational vocal style and pounding drum beats to create something truly distinctive. Fans of the likes of early The Prodigy and Aphex Twin will feel at home here.

Redolent was formed in 2012. Since then, Robin (vocals, guitar, keys), Robbie White (bass, keys), Danny Herbert (guitar, keys) and Andrew Turnbull (drums) have been honing their craft and pride themselves on their DIY status. Everything down to their press shots and videos are entirely created themselves.

Redolent have already received support from the likes of BBC Radio Scotland's Vic Galloway, as well as previously supporting We Were Promised Jetpacks and performing at Scotland's acclaimed T In The Park and Belladrum festivals. Dantercepies is the first single to be taken from their debut EP Sgitheanach, which will be released later on in 2018.

With Dantercepies, Redolent hope to captivate listeners further with their unique blend of experimental rock.

Dantercepies is out on 2nd February 2018 via Aspartame.
