

PRESS RELEASE

SINGLE RELEASE

Artist: Super Tennis

Title: Super Tennis Theme Song

Tracks: "Super Tennis Theme Song", "Billy Ocean",
"Yaphet Kotto" and "The Pacific Has No Memory"

Release date: Our now!

Label: Banquet Records

Format: 10 inch vinyl / download via itunes

Super Tennis released their debut record Super Tennis Theme Song on 27th April through Banquet Records. This 10 inch release precedes a forthcoming debut album, The Quiet Finale, due for release this summer. Within a week of the release, Super Tennis quickly scored a number 2 spot in the UK Indie Chart!

"Super Tennis serve up a lo-fi beauty. Fifteen love!" – NME

Based in North London, Super Tennis is a three-piece band playing indie-pop that Henman would approve of, but they don't care because Tim Henman is a dork. Super Tennis Theme Song is the perfect example of what Mike Williams describes as 'wrong-pop'. Make of that what you will. A three way yelped vocal attack, extolling the virtues of 'hawkeye' technology and 'colour tv', it's a two-minute blast of infectious lo-fi pop that will leave you with a grin.

Formed in 2007, Tom McEnro (guitar), Kev Perry (bass) and Bob Beker (drums) draw influences from bands such as Karate, The Dismemberment Plan and Hall and Oates, melding them together to form an exciting and unpredictable collection of songs for this debut record. Recorded with John Hannon at No Recording Studio, the 10 inch release is backed with three accompanying tracks. The raw and breathless charm of Billy Ocean is complimented by Yaphet Kotto and brooding 7-minute closer The Pacific Has No Memory.

With a sound and ambition that gives nods to post rock and math rock, and an intention to root their songs in pop, this is a melodic and beat-heavy record for people who like shouting, smiling and having a good time, all the time.

-
- * Super Tennis are available for interviews
 - * Photographs available on request
 - * Official website address www.myspace.com/supertennislovesyou

All print and online enquiries to:
A Badge of Friendship PR

Claire Lim / Paul McCallum * abadgeoffriendship@hotmail.com * 07833 934 207 www.myspace.com/abadgeoffriendship